Well, Tom is now convinced there is nothing written down as to what to do when he dies. He wants us to hurry up and get something down so if he dies tomorrow some attorney won't decide what is going to happen. I thought all that was done but he decide what is going to happen. I thought all that was done but he says no. He wants all 3 of us to get together and figure it out.

And he wants it to be soon, he says no waiting, he could die tomorrow. I have no idea what has prompted all this but he is really bent on it.
