David,

I am unsure what has or has not been done, so I want to let you know what I have done to assist with the Discover Statements.

The Discover Statements are being mailed and should be here 7-10 days from last Friday. I asked for them to be emailed, and Discover said they could not do that. I will scan and send them as soon as I get them.

Since my Dad has been in hospital three weeks ago, I have his wallet with ID and Discover Card.

When you get his statements, you will see various purchases for him, from Amazon, medication, Walmart, and dinners delivered to him while he was at Cedar Lake Village. Items like slip-on shoes to help him put his shoes on easier. Shirts with magnetic buttons that he could more easily fasten. Cedar Lake only served two meals a day, so we started ordering a hot meal (or Jimmy John's) from various places nearby and having it delivered. When ordering Jimmy John's, we would order multiple-foot-long sandwiches cut in half to last a few days to avoid daily delivery charges. He also started needing adult briefs that were charged on his Discover Card.

I also want to inform you that Terese has his card number and purchased some items for him when he moved to Cedar Lake. I don't believe she has used the card since she filed the court case.

The Discover Card to auto-pay 1 1/2-2 years ago, out of his Enterprise Bank, which my Dad authorized and my sister also knew about. It is still set up to do that every month.

I have paid for many things for my father out of my own money and did not ask for reimbursement. Well, before and after the 400k. We have taken him out for lunch/dinners, got ice cream or smoothies, bought his cookies, various food items, and personal toiletries, and used my credit card. I guess I am old-fashioned, but I don't feel that keeping an itemized list of everything you spend on your parents and then asking to be reimbursed is a caring and loving thing.

I also paid 2 of Jon's attorney bills, his initial payment to get into the Benton House, the movers' bill to move from Cedar Lake to Benton House, and his portion of the Mediation Fee.

I have visited two places for him to move from the Benton House again. He had an assessment on Monday from one of the locations. He will likely have admission costs to a new facility, moving costs, and will probably need a new smaller bed and some items disposed of at The Benton House. How do you suggest payment for these items?

He also has his LTC coverage with Genworth. He did not qualify the last time I tried to request it when he moved into the Benton House, as his level of need/care did not qualify. I will try again to have him assessed by Genworth so we can get that to kick in to cover his costs at a new facility.

Thank you,

Jeff Price
